OVERVIEW

General Characteristics

- Trail length: 3.8 mile loop
- Surface: Asphalt multi-use trail
- Extends from Cuthbert Road to Route 130 with a 1.8 mile extension from Cuthbert Road to Grove Street
- Provides access to public boat launch
- Many recreational amenities along the trail
- Completely separated from street crossings: great for families with children

History and Future

Cooper River Park's 345 acres, which the trail runs through, have long been considered the crown jewel of Camden County's park system.

In the future, the trails along the Cooper River will be extended to link with the walkway over the Benjamin Franklin Bridge, giving access to downtown Camden and Philadelphia, and connecting two important pieces of the Circuit.

Special Amenities

The Camden County Boathouse is home to seven local rowing clubs that train daily on the Cooper River, and it frequently hosts major state and national rowing events during the spring and summer months.

Public river access is available for paddlers and non-motor boat users on the south side of the park.

The Cooper River Yacht Club offers sailing instruction courses during the summer to children and adults, as well as organizing racing events from time to time.

Eating: Picnic tables and pavilions are plentiful along the Cooper River Trail

Cafes and restaurants are found in Haddonfield and Collingswood, which are connected by quiet streets on the south side of the Cooper River.

Fishing is possible along the river. The installation of fish ladders along the impoundments has improved the quality of fishing for anglers.

A children's playground, running track, softball fields, volley ball courts, and other recreational facilities make this a dynamic trail to visit.

Indoor restrooms are available at Jack Curtis stadium year round from 10AM to 10PM.

To the east, if one is comfortable riding in mixed traffic, one can travel the following roads to reach Wharton State Forest and the wilderness of the New Jersey Pine Barrens: Borton's Mill Road, Kresson Road, Braddock Mill Road, Tomlinson Mill Road, Taunton Lake Road, Fairview Road, Gravelly Hollow Road, Midbridge Drive, and Atsion Road.
